1. [Gendered Innovations] Canadian Institute of Gender and Health--new trainings!

It's Federal Sex- and Gender-based Analysis Awareness Week in Canada and I'm proud to announce the official launch of the Institute of Gender and Health's new online competency modules. These modules will help researchers and reviewers discover best practices for integrating sex- and gender-based analysis across health research disciplines.

Sex and gender influence our risk of developing certain diseases, how well we respond to medical treatments and how often we seek health care. Integrating sex and gender into health research is essential for creating research that is rigorous and applicable to everyone.

DID YOU KNOW?

- Preclinical research on male mice may not be generalizable to females;
- Participants' self-reported data may change depending on whether the researcher is male or female; and
- There are at least three different ways of analyzing gender independent of sex in large datasets.

ONLINE MODULES:

- Sex and Gender in Biomedical Research
- Sex and Gender in Primary Data Collection with Humans
- Sex and Gender in the Analysis of Data from Human Participants

<http://www.cihr-irsc.gc.ca/e/49347.html>

Each interactive module takes less than an hour to complete, and can be done in 15-minute segments over time.

First, test your knowledge on the pre-test to see how well you do. Then take the course to evaluate if you can appropriately appraise sex and gender in real protocols and publications. When you are finished, download the CIHR certificate for your records.

Check out these modules now. Spread the word by sending them to your colleagues and students. And do not hesitate to send us feedback. By raising the bar on sex and gender science, you will not only be a better researcher and decision-maker, you will lead cutting-edge discoveries, practice and policy.

2. DT. programmes in English: Applied Gender Studies and Intercultural Communication

From the University of Opole in the south of Poland, just in the very middle of Europe. We lloure very thrilled to announce the opening of two high quality master's programmes in humanities and social sciences taught in English: Applied Gender Studies and Intercultural Communication. It might be an interesting offer for your aspiring students, willing to specialize either in social inequalities and communication or in social diversity and communication or research.

3. Parlar com a dona: Una elecció, 4 de juny de 9.30 a 11.15h Jornades Radicalment feministes. DUODA, Centre de Recerca de Dones. Universitat de Barcelona.

Et convidem a participar en el Taller Parlar com a dona. Una elecció, que ofereix el Centre de Recerca Duoda de la Universitat de Barcelona en les "Jornades radicalment feministes (40 anys de feminisme a Catalunya)" el dissabte 4 de juny de 2016 des de les 9.30 del matí fins a les 11.15, en l'aula 40:004 en la seu de la trobada, l'Institut d'Humanitats de la Universitat Pompeu Fabra de Barcelona. C/ Ramon Trias Fargas, 25. Barcelona

En el taller proposem una pràctica de la política de les dones consistent a prendre lliurement la paraula la que vulga durant cinc minuts màxim per intervenció, les vegades que una desitge, per a anar dient el que significa per a ella el parlar com a dona, com ho sent i com li canvia l'experiència de si i de les relacions. En el taller no hi haurà ni ponents ni discursos ni conclusions, simplement la presa femenina de la paraula segons el desig del moment. Així, dibuixarem les línies i tons d'un entramat de sensacions comuna i nou, seguint la genealogia dels grups d'autoconsciència.

El mètode d'aquest taller està inspirat en la pràctica de la trobada feminista de Paestum 2 celebrat a l'octubre de 2012 en aqueix lloc d'Itàlia, una trobada que va reunir a prop de mil dones. Si vols llegir un llibret sobre el que allí va passar, mira el de Luisa Cavaliere, Lia Cigarini, Hi ha una bona diferència. Un diàleg, al que pots accedir lliurement entrant en la Biblioteca Virtual de Recerca i Docència Duoda, en l'enllaç:
